From The Deputy Principal

One of our EREA touchstones that authentically links St Bernard's College to the charism of Blessed Edmund Rice is being an ‘Inclusive Community’. This means that we welcome and foster the right relationships and commit ourselves to the common good. Next week is National Reconciliation Week.

It is timely when we consider that this weekend the AFL celebrates the talents and contributions of indigenous footballers to the great game of Australian Rules. During this week we celebrated the 20th anniversary of the occasion when Nicky Winmar pulled up his St Kilda jumper and pointed proudly to his black skin in response to racist jibes from the Collingwood cheer squad. Although it is difficult to comprehend, it is quite possible that some within the crowd felt that such comments were acceptable at the time. Winmar’s response started a process of change whereby sport started to provided the example to society of how to stand up against racial vilification. This aspect of reconciliation is celebrated with the Michael Long Dreamtime Walk to the ‘G’ and the Essendon-Richmond Dreamtime game this Saturday night. I encourage you to participate in the walk with your families along with our indigenous boys.

The dreamtime game is a celebration; Next week is a little different.

An American lawyer once wrote, “History repeats itself, and that’s one of the things that’s wrong with history”. I write this from the perspective that our indigenous population continues to live in conditions that lead to high infant mortality rates and low life expectancy in adults. This is an injustice. How to break this cycle of injustice is a difficult question to answer, however we can begin that journey by firstly acknowledging the history of the Indigenous people and then work on ways of ensuring that these injustices are not repeated.

Next week coincides with two important dates in Indigenous Australia’s recent history. May 27 marks the anniversary of the 1967 referendum in which more than 90% of Australians voted to remove clauses from the Australian Constitution which discriminated against Indigenous Australians. It enabled Indigenous people to be included in the census, and gave federal parliament the power to make laws in relation to Indigenous people. June 3 marks the anniversary of the High Court’s judgment in the 1992 Mabo case. The decision recognised the Native Title rights of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples as the original inhabitants of the continent and overturned the myth of terra nullius – the belief that the continent was an empty, un-owned land before the arrival of Europeans in 1788.

Next week is the ideal time for all Australians to think about how to help turn around the disadvantage experienced by many Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. It is also a time where we can reflect on what we are doing to advance the process of reconciliation. At this point in time it is almost inconceivable that we do not recognise our first Australians in our very own constitution. In fact, the constitution still allows the states to ban people from voting based on their race. As an inclusive community we need to instigate this change which can be done by acknowledging your support at www.recognition.org.au

Next week is about understanding of the facts of Indigenous Australia, including history and its continuing effects. This understanding is fundamental for respectful engagement and mutual acceptance. That is what an ‘inclusive community’ is all about.

We can’t change the way others think but as a member of a community we can start by changing the way we think.

Best Wishes
Damian McKee

Communication

There are many advantages to the use of technology in communication and in education. Immediacy is one. At times however the expectation of immediacy can lead to a flawed sense of what is reasonable. We are used to an immediate response to our phone calls, email, facebook or twitter messages, and have come to expect that this will always occur. A staff member recently told me of being called to the staffroom door by a polite, earnest and hardworking student just after 8.30am. The boy wanted to know whether the essay he had emailed the teacher the night before had been corrected yet. It had been sent around midnight. The boy meant no offence and the teacher took none.

Communication is sometimes circulating around our community. It is also TAT and exam season and some boys are choosing to present to sickbay and attempt to avoid assessment.

We ask that parents do not send boys to school if they are ill. Should a boy become ill during the day we will be contacting parents and asking that you collect your son as soon as possible. Please understand that we do not have the capacity to care for ill students at the College during the day. Thank you for your understanding and cooperation in this matter.

Social Justice Evening

The St Bernard’s social justice network are conducting a Q and A night entitled “How can I Foster Social Justice Values in my Son?”. It is next Wednesday May 29 at the College. The evening promises to be a brilliant event with world class presenters. I hope that many families are able to attend.

Sick Bay

Our sickbay has been inundated with boys lately. Mostly, for legitimate reasons with families battling the current flu bug that is circulating around our community. It is also TAT and exam season and some boys are choosing to present to sickbay and attempt to avoid assessment.

We ask that parents do not send boys to school if they are ill. Should a boy become ill during the day we will be contacting parents and asking that you collect your son as soon as possible. Please understand that we do not have the capacity to care for ill students at the College during the day. Thank you for your understanding and cooperation in this matter.
Cybersafety
This week is National Cybersecurity Awareness Week. The aim of running a week such as this is to help Australians understand the importance of cybersafety and cybersecurity. During this week families are encouraged to login to cyber sites such as cybersmart kids, Netalert and Stay Smart Online. A set of key tips for cyber safety are listed below:
1. Install and upgrade your security software; set it to scan regularly.
2. Turn on automatic updates on all your software, particularly your operating system and applications.
3. Use strong passwords and different passwords for different uses.
4. Stop and think before you click on links or attachments.
5. Take care when transacting online – check the supplier and use a safe payment method.
6. Only download apps from reputable publishers and read all permission requests.
7. Regularly check your privacy settings on social network sites.
8. Stop and think before you post any photos of financial information online.
9. Talk with your child about staying safe online, including on their smartphone or mobile device.
10. Report or talk to someone if you feel threatened online – download the Government’s Cybersafety help button.

Edmund Rice Day Fundraisers
Once again we thank the St Bernard’s College community for their generosity in raising $72,000 for the Br Beausang Catholic Education Centre in Embulbul, Kenya. Below is a list of boys who raised $200 or more. It’s a substantial list that grows and grows each year. As you will see the Pereira family made a significant contribution to the fundraising with Blake raising an amazing $6,330. As highest fundraiser he was to receive a JB Hi Fi voucher to the value of 50% of the amount he raised, meaning that Blake would have received a voucher for $3,165. However, in a further act of generosity the Pereira family requested for this prize money to be recycled back into the total funds to be sent to Embulbul. On the insistence of the school, Blake received a voucher for $500. We sincerely thank the Pereira family for their incredible generosity.

Music News
We celebrated a wonderful semester 1 College concert recently, having collaborated with SBC Old Collegian and seasoned industry musician Ashley Naylor (above). The concert concluded with amazing renditions of Heroes by David Bowie and Hey Jude by the Beatles involving senior band musicians and student vocalists with Ashley fronting the 60-strong ensemble. We congratulate all students involved.

On the evening of Tuesday June 4, an opportunity exists for any budding College musician to play on our Auditorium stage in the first of our Soirees for the year. This is open to any student of the College, not just those learning music at school. Register at http://sbcmusicdepartment.weebly.com/soiree-registration.html before May 27.

A reminder to our Year 7 students in 7A,B,C,D and H that their Year 7 Concert is scheduled for June 20. This concert will be held in the College Auditorium at 7:30pm. All students will be required to wear full winter uniform for this event.
